To purchase a Landal Giftcard, we will need some information from you. We also use the services of third parties who will receive specific personal data and process this on behalf of Landal GreenParks, for example to send out the giftcard and process your payment. This information sharing mainly occurs as the result of a giftcard purchase, so it will be based on an agreement with you.

What data do we use?

To properly address you, we like to use some of your personal information, such as your first and last name, gender, mailing address and e-mail address. This information is also required to purchase a Landal Giftcard. With this information we can confirm the order of your giftcard via e-mail and send it to your home address. To pay for the Landal Giftcard online we will also ask for your payment information. We use the secure payment environment of one of our partners who will process the payment.

Retention periods

In principle we only store your information for a year. However, certain legislation or other circumstances may require us to store it for a longer period.

Contact, access, alteration or removal of data, and complaints

Upon request, we will inform you if your personal information is being processed. In certain circumstances, you may retrieve, correct, supplement, remove or restrict this data, for instance if it is factually incorrect. This may result in you being unable to make further use of (a part of) our services.

Please contact us for more information.

If you should have a complaint about the processing of your personal data, you may also contact the relevant government authority (Dutch Data Protection Authority).
